

promaintain becomes part of the PERI Group

Effective from 1 July 2023, PERI SE has acquired promaintain GmbH & Co. KG in Gaimersheim. The company will continue to operate as an independent unit within the PERI Group, under its previous brand and company name. All previous employees of promaintain will be taken over.

promaintain is one of the leading service providers for innovative, integrated industrial scaffolding. The company offers efficient and transparent project planning and implementation for scaffolding companies, industrial plant operators, and general contractors (EPCs). Services such as turnaround management, 3D laser scanning, and animation complete promaintain's portfolio. The distribution of PERI scaffolding materials to scaffolding contractors continues to take place through the PERI sales organisations.

A primary reason for the acquisition for PERI was to increase customer benefits. The expanded competence enables PERI customers to benefit from comprehensive planning of industrial projects as well as the provision of scaffolding materials in an integrated approach. In doing so, all requirements of the various trades and the client are carefully considered. Especially in complex industrial projects with extensive interfaces and high safety standards, this holistic solution proves to be a significant advantage. It leads to increased efficiencies, improved project quality as well as reliable process security, and adherence to schedules. This represents an immediate added financial value for the client.

"We have already worked very well together in the past and are happy about the reinforcement. This purchase is an important step for PERI to further strengthen our market position in the industrial scaffolding segment and to achieve our ambitious growth targets for the coming years," says Harijs Cika, Head of Scaffolding at PERI.
